As part of CKN's Resident Section initiative, we invite authors who have published articles in the Current Oncology journal to produce a supplementary article related to their publication suitable for resident-level learning. This could take the form of a case-based teaching study, answers to a series of interview-style questions, discussion of a relevant clinical or scientific issue raised in the paper, a summary of the article's findings, and/or other content suitable for enhancing resident education. This supplement would be published in CKN's Resident Section, along with a link to the original Current Oncology journal article.

Please confirm your interest in becoming a potential CKN participant:

- Yes, I would like to participate in the CKN Resident Section initiative.
- No, I am not interested in participating in the CKN project at this time.

Please fax completed form to Multimed Inc. at (905) 875-2864
